Policy Context

Information Communications Technologies (ICTs) are now very much a part of everyday life and learning. While ICTs bring new opportunities for learning, they also bring some risks.

Cyberbullying is a criminal offence of the digital age, for any person above 14 years of age, where individuals are targeted through the use of technology. Cyberbullies can use the Internet, a mobile device or even a camera to harass, embarrass, threaten or hurt a person. The biggest concern here is that this type of bullying behaviour can easily be shared with a wide audience making it more widespread than traditional bullying.

Cyberbullying is direct verbal or indirect bullying behaviours that is offensive, intimidating, threatening or harassing using digital technologies against someone. This includes inappropriate communication via mobile devices, setting up a defamatory personal website or deliberately excluding someone from social networking spaces.

All forms of cyberbullying are unacceptable at Wyndham Community and Education Centre Inc. (Wyndham CEC). Such behaviour is unlawful and will not be tolerated. All staff, clients, volunteers and students have the right to an atmosphere free of cyberbullying and have the responsibility to prevent it and expose it when it occurs. Cyberbullying can detrimentally affect an individual's health and well-being. Wyndham CEC staff will report behaviour to Police if they think a crime has been committed.

What is Cyberbullying?

Cyberbullying is the use of information and communication technologies to support deliberate, repeated and hostile behaviour by an individual or group that is intended to harm other whether mentally or physically.

Cyberbullying is direct verbal or indirect bullying behaviours that is carried out using digital technologies including phones, email and social media tools such as the Internet, email, chat rooms, gaming sites, discussion groups, online social networking sites, blogs, cameras, instant messaging, digital images and/or mobile phone technologies such as short messaging service (SMS). Cyber bullying can be perpetrated at any time of the day of the week. To harass, embarrass, threaten or hurt a person. This includes inappropriate communication via mobile devices, setting up a defamatory personal website or deliberately excluding someone from social networking spaces.

Cyberbullying includes:

- Pranking: repeated hang ups, anonymous, mocking or threatening phone calls.
- Image Sharing: Forwarding or sharing unflattering or private images without permission.
- Sexually explicit images: People of any age, who forward or share images of a sexual nature of a person under 19 need to be aware that this is a criminal offence (child pornography) that may result in prosecution.
- Text and email: Sending insulting or threatening text messages or emails.
- Personal online information: Publishing online someone's private, personal or embarrassing information without permission, or spreading rumors online.
- Identity theft: Assuming someone's identity online and negatively representing them in a way that damages their reputation or relationships.
- Hate sites: Creating hate sites or implementing social exclusion or discrimination campaigns on social networking sites.

Activities can include:

- Posting insulting, untrue or malicious messages on social networking sites
- Spreading rumours online
- Making threats using digital technology
- Excluding a person from an on-line group
- Sending unwanted messages by text, instant messaging or email
- Distributing to others naked or semi naked photographs or images of a sexually explicit or otherwise inappropriate nature.

It also includes use of technology to run a multi-step campaign to bully another person. For example, setting up another person to be assaulted, video-recording their humiliation, posting the video-recording online and then sending the website address to others.

Cyberbullying can be pervasive and incessant. It differs from face-to-face bullying in that the bully may 'follow' their victim 24/7 and continue the bullying using technology at any time. Cyberbullies may take advantage of the perception of anonymity (e.g. using an account in a fake name, or a blocked number).

Cyberbullying can be particularly harmful as it is often a public form of humiliation and many others are able to see what is written or posted. Once messages/images are posted publicly online, it is very difficult to remove them.

Policy and Procedure

Its use can create a risk to another person's health or safety – either psychologically or physically – or their property, reputation, or social acceptance. It can cause hurt, self-harm or make someone fear for their safety.

Cyberbullying behaviours can include but are not limited to:

- Inappropriate verbal suggestions;
- Jokes or innuendo aimed at an individual to embarrass and humiliate;
- Sending inappropriate, insulting or threatening texts, picture messages, emails, or instant messages (e.g. Instagram, TikTok, Snapchat or Facebook);
- Sending/display of inappropriate images such as forwarding or sharing unflattering or private images without permission;
- Sending and/or forwarding sexually explicit images ('sexting'); People of any age, who forward or share images of a sexual nature of a person under 18 need to be aware that this is a criminal offence (child pornography) that may result in prosecution;
- Publishing someone's private, personal or embarrassing information without permission, or spreading rumors / lies online;
- Posting mean or nasty comments or pictures in chat forums;
- Offensive or inappropriate phone calls or SMS;
- Forwarding other's private emails, messages, pictures or videos without permission;
- Assuming someone's identity online and negatively representing them in a way that damages their reputation or relationships;
- Creating hate sites or implementing social exclusion campaigns on social networking sites;
- Applying inappropriate pressure to another person to speak or act in a particular way;
- Targeting another person with inappropriate words or actions;
- Name calling;
- Encouraging others to socially exclude someone / intentionally excluding others from an online group;
- Damaging someone's social reputation and social acceptance;
- Stealing passwords / Using a person's password to access their account and then pretending to be them;
- Sending cruel and threatening messages or material;
- Placing embarrassing photos of people on the web;
- Creating fake profiles that are mean or hurtful;
- Repeated prank phone calls such as repeated hang ups, anonymous or threatening phone calls;
- Using technology to run a multi-step campaign to bully another person. For example, setting another student up to be assaulted, video-recording their humiliation, posting the video-recording online and then sending the website address to others;
- Using technology in a way that intentionally encourages or causes someone fear for their safety or self-harm.

Policy and Procedure

Cyberbullying vs bullying

While cyberbullying is similar to bullying in some ways, there are also differences.

Differences:

- Cyberbullying can be difficult to escape and is incredibly invasive. It is more likely to occur outside of times at Wyndham CEC, including at home, and can happen anywhere.
- Cyberbullying can involve a large audience. Cyberbullying can involve harmful material being widely and rapidly shared to a large audience, for example, rumors and images can be posted on public forums or sent to many people at once. This material can also continue to be available and harmful long after the cyberbullying has ceased.
- Cyberbullies have a sense of anonymity. Cyberbullying can provide the bully with a sense of relative anonymity and distance from the target, so there is a lack of immediate feedback or consequences.

Similarities:

- Power imbalance - The power imbalance between the ‘bully’ and the ‘target’, the repetitive nature of the bullying behaviour and the intent to harm, humiliate, embarrass, ostracise, or isolate can occur in bullying and cyberbullying.
- Types of behavior - Types of behaviour including spreading rumours and making threats or insults, can occur in bullying and cyberbullying.
- Reasons for behaving in a bullying way - People often engage in cyberbullying for the same reasons they engage in bullying.

Using technology in an inappropriate fashion could be committing a crime.

It is a criminal offence to:

- Use ICT devices such as the internet or a phone in a menacing, threatening, harassing or offensive way
- Use a phone or the Internet to make a threat
- Stalking (including messaging someone to self-harm or scare them)
- Defamation (spreading lies to intentionally hurt someone’s reputation)
- Encouraging self-harm or for the person to fear for their safety
- Take, receive or distribute sexual images of a minor (someone under 18). You can be charged even if it is a photo of yourself and you agree to it being sent
- Using another’s digital technology for any form of Cyber Bullying can result in a charge of identity theft.

Committing any of the offences listed above can result in a three year jail sentence.

Wyndham Community and Education Centre Inc. Policy and Procedure

There are also stalking offences in each state and territory. Stalking involves a persistent course of conduct by a person against a victim, which intends to make them feel fearful, uncomfortable, offended or harassed. This conduct may occur online (for example, by email or on social networking sites) or via text message.

In Victoria, it is illegal to stalk a person. Stalking occurs where a person intentionally and persistently intends to cause another person to feel fearful, uncomfortable, offended or harassed. This conduct may occur online (for example, by email or on social networking sites) or via text message.

Conduct that may be considered stalking is:

- telephoning or contacting someone electronically by email, chat rooms, SMS, or messenger, where the intention is to cause another to fear for their own safety or the safety of another or to cause another physical or psychological harm; or
- providing offensive material to another or leaving it to be found by a person (this would include posting offensive photos or messages via email, on networking pages such as Instagram, Snapchat, Google +, Facebook or You Tube, online gaming sites, or in chatrooms or message boards).

Using text messaging, emails or telephones, mobile phones, to make a threat or to harass or menace someone can also constitute a range of other crimes.

Where cyberbullying involves:

- comments that injure the personal and professional reputation of an individual; or
- exposing that person to ridicule or causing other people to avoid them, it may amount to defamation. A person who has been defamed may be able to sue the other person.

Responsibilities

Wyndham CEC has no tolerance to bullying in any form.

Any student, client or employee who believes they have been a victim of cyberbullying is encouraged to inform the offender that their behaviour is unacceptable and against Wyndham CEC policies and codes.

Any student, client or staff who has knowledge of cyberbullying occurring should inform a member of the Management team as soon as possible so that action can be taken.

Any staff member subject to of cyberbullying should seek the support of their Manager or coordinator or HR as appropriate. Any behaviour that makes a person feel offended, Wyndham Community and Education Centre Inc.

Policy and Procedure

threatened, scared, intimidated or uncomfortable is against Wyndham CEC policy and unlawful.

Staff, students and clients are expected to behave appropriately as per codes of conduct.

Procedure

All reports of cyberbullying should be treated seriously and thoroughly investigated by the relevant service unit Manager and raised with the CEO as relevant.

On completion of the investigation, the Manager or senior manager will determine the course of action to be taken. The CEO should be informed and kept up to date during the process.

The CEO will keep the Board informed of any investigation or actions undertaken if required.

Breaches of this policy will have consequences ranging from a written warning, counselling, dismissal, exit from a program and / or legal proceedings. Online safety includes safe and responsible use of ICT/email.

Where there is a reasonable belief that illegal activity or misuse of technology may have occurred, Wyndham CEC may report the suspected illegal activity or misuse of technology to police if appropriate.

Wyndham CEC will take all steps to ensure physical and online environments promote safety and wellbeing while minimising opportunities for students, clients and staff to be harmed.
